

Town of Melbourne Beach

Well-Being Check Program

The Melbourne Beach Police Department and Melbourne Beach Volunteer Fire Department have implemented a Well-Being Check Program for Citizens of the town which may require any type of special needs. This program is designed to make the Town of Melbourne Beach aware of those special needs and also to expedite care for the person during incidents which require responses from emergency personnel. It will also give the agencies emergency contact information for the person if any situation arises where we may need to contact family members or guardians.

This program is designed for any person with special needs to include, but not limited to the following; the elderly, persons with medical issues and handicap persons.

If a person is listed with the Town's Well-Being Check program, either officer's from the Melbourne Beach Police Department or personnel from the Melbourne Beach Volunteer Fire Department will go by the residence once a month to check on the person and also speak to them or any family members about any issues that may be going on. They will also be able to assist with contacting the Brevard County Special Needs Registry and any other resources that may be necessary.

If you or a member of your family would like to inquire more about the program, or wish to be a part of the program, please contact the Melbourne Beach Police Department at 321-723-4343.

This program is strictly confidential and any information obtained for it will not be allowed under a public records request.
